

Project Description

This rejuvenation project strives to bring the place back to life and bring in new people. The first three floors are broken through, and a runway spirals from the fourth floor down to the first, and acts as both function and attraction. The fourth floor is turned into a communal workshop for all fabric artisans and craftsmen. The housing is redesigned for those who work and aspire to work within the fashion industry. It promotes mingling and face-to-face meeting of the residents through the intertwining spaces. The roof is designed based on the language of fabric and acts as a canopy for the building below, providing shade and fun.