Project Description:

This project envisions a city where nature and human memories intertwine to create a place people choose to stay and live. By expanding parks and green spaces, starting near the river, the design connects people to the past, present, and future. Nature becomes a canvas of memories—trees, paths, and water reflecting stories of generations while creating new moments for exploration and togetherness. This space encourages diverse groups to gather, fostering a sense of community and belonging through shared activities, whether in solitude or connection with others. Greenery acts as a gentle guide, leading people through the city without maps, shaping both physical and emotional navigation. Programs like food centers and spaces for emerging technologies ensure the area thrives, embracing progress while remaining rooted in human warmth. This vision spreads greenery like a ripple, seamlessly weaving memory, nature, and innovation into the city's fabric for generations to come.
