

This project is the bird watching tower located in Sri Nakhon Khuean Khan Park in the Bangkrajao area. The project's concept reimagines the traditional bird-watching experience by naturally attracting birds to come to the birdwatcher rather than requiring us to search for it. This is achieved through a design that integrates water function, perches, and plants, which attracts birds to the space. The tower's form is inspired by the geometry of a pentagon, which ensures that every viewpoint offers a distinct, pentagonal perspective.
