

PROJECT DETAILS FOR FINAL SUBMISSION

Project Title: HIDE n' SEEK บ้านเล็กในป่าใหญ่

...

Student's Full Name: Phasawin Torsuwan

...

Instructor's Full Name: Joris Putteneers

...

Course:
Design 3

Studio Brief Title:
A Home is Not a House

Short Project Description (100 words max.): The Hide and Seeks is a Trekking cabin developed based on the concepts of flexibility, Adaptability and Transpecies which was inspired by Barak house as a case study. This cabin aims to utilise its adjacent environment and terrain to create space for travellers while benefiting non-human species and encouraging them to use this space alongside humans.

Full Project Narrative/Text Description (300 words max.):

The Hide and Seeks is a Trekking cabin developed based on the concepts of flexibility, Adaptability and Transpecies which was inspired by Barak house as a case study. This cabin aims to utilise its adjacent environment and terrain to create space for travellers while benefiting non-human species and encouraging them to use this space alongside humans. The cabin consists of three main elements which are the cabin and two satellite stations. Firstly the cabin, the cabin aims to blend itself into the adjacent terrain together to benefit non-human species like birds and small animals living in the building. The cabin provides shading and shelter for those small animals to hide from predators and also serves its facade as an overseeing spot. The next one is salt lick, A Salt lick is a pool of minerals that animals like bears deer and horses need we serve this spot by creating salt lick for animals to make sure that all the adjacent species get enough minerals and food also those minerals benefit the trees and plants. Last, the water wells, The most important factor of living is water and food I found the water stream and old wells in the area that can be renovated into usable water wells these water wells also aim to serve as an additional water resource for animals. Humans can utilise these satellite station by exploring them during their stay to experience the new area and also sight seeing the animals at the same time.